

Octopus

ATMOS: Underwater - VO is narrating so not in the scene.

VO: The pacific octopus is a dedicated parent.
After laying her eggs, she stays with them for months,
ensuring they're oxygenated and clean.
She doesn't eat... eventually starving.
At least her young survive.
Parenting in the wild is hard.
At THE WILD FIG... you won't starve for your young.
From Monday to Friday, kids get a free meal with every adult meal purchased.
Book at THE WILD FIG .COM .AU.

Penguin

ATMOS: Howling winds, slapping of penguin flippers on ice

VO: Emperor penguins walk up to 80 kilometres to find food for their chicks.
In howling, icy winds.
Trying to avoid hungry seals and orcas.
Then once they find food... there's the journey back.
Parenting in the wild is hard.
But at THE WILD FIG, finding a kids' meal is easy.
From Monday to Friday, kids get a free meal with every adult meal purchased.
Book at THE WILD FIG .COM .AU.

Gull

ATMOS: Violent ocean waves, seagull sounds

VO: Pacific gulls fly over 150 kilometres for food.
They dive into the ocean for a catch... hoping something else doesn't catch them.
Then they have to regurgitate it to feed their young.
Parenting in the wild is hard.
But at THE WILD FIG, it's easy to feed your kids free.
From Monday to Friday, kids get a free meal with
every adult meal purchased.
Book at THE WILD FIG .COM .AU.